HERE'S the POINT!

By SPENCE HELD

Smoke and ashes, drifting over Point Loma early this week, provided a pungent whiff of that big brush and timber fire in the back country.

It was Topic A for conversation in Ocean Beach. The Olympic Games, football, and the crisis in Europe were eclipsed by The Fire.

A fella from the East Coast seemed irritated by the smoke. "I'd heard about L. A. smog and California earthquakes," he said plaintively. "But I didn't know you had smoke along the seashore from a fire 50 miles away."

"We don't, usually,'" I assured him. "This is very unusual. I've lived in San Diego practically all my life and I don't ever remember smelling smoke like this before."

"Oh, yeah? Tell it to the Marines—they'll probably have to put out the fire."

* * *

I pretended to be amused. "You a Marine?" I asked.

"No, I'm a Russian spy. I find San Diego very interesting. You Americans are crazy, you know. All these military installations here—one guided missile with a hydrogen warhead, fired from a submarine, and POOF!"

"Well," I said, "Well—"

"Deep subject."

"Yeah, and you're too corny to be a Russian spy, guy. I knew a Russian once; he was a very complicated character. His name was Rasputin Jones. He was a wrestler and they billed him as The Great Rasputin. He weighed 380 pounds and would pick up an ordinary king-size wrestler and go into an airplane spin and heave the guy out into the fifth row of seats . . . Did you ever see a dame catch a wrestler in her lap?"

* * *

He grinned and shook his head. "No, we don't allow frivolous things like that in Russia. It probably would be considered counter-revolutionary."

"Don't give me that stuff," I said. "Those Russian women discus-throwers I saw on TV the other night looked fairly frivolous to me. Unnecessary, in fact . . . By the way, the Russian athletes—men, I mean—aren't doing very well in the Olympics. If the Americans keep on winning, Krush and Bulgy will have to lay in an extra supply of vodka for a cold winter in the Kremlin . . . I've noticed, though, that Russian and American athletes get along O.K. together when there are no political commissars around. How about it, Commissar?"

But he had grown tired of my harangue and departed.

(No, Virginia, he really wasn't a Russian spy . . . Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus.)

BARREL—This quite candid shot shows a couple of local kids putting toys in a barrel here. You can make some needy children happy this Christmas by dropping new or repairable toys in the Moose barrels, placed throughout the Peninsula area. Toys will be repaired and distributed by the Salvation Army.

Firefighters & Women Volunteers Will March Next Thursday, Friday

Capt. W. E. Hanna of Fire Station 22 on Catalina Blvd., and Lt. H. J. Conners of Fire Station 15 at Voltaire & Ebers, are chairmen in the Peninsula area for the annual "Fire Fighters March for Muscular Dystrophy" funds drive to be held next Thursday and Friday evenings, Dec. 6 and 7.

The firefighters from 20 city stations will be assisted in their house-to-house march by more than 2500 volunteer housewives. Some 500 residents of the Peninsula will march here against this fatal mystery disease of the muscles.

Collections from the two-hour march will support 87 research programs and will pay for physiotherapy and orthopedic appliances for many of San Diego's afflicted children with this incurable disease.

Former mayor John D. Butler, campaign chairman, pointed out that children with M. D. seldom live beyond their teens. "With everyone's help," Butler added, "this may be the 'Salk Vaccine' year for M.D."

All volunteers are urged to pick up their kits Dec. 6 and 7 from Capt. Hanna and Lt. Conners at either local fire station, or the one assigned to their area.

Poinsettia Queen Deadline Dec. 4

The final date for entrants in the Poinsettia Queen contest has been moved ahead to noon on Dec. 4. This change was made because of the cancellation of the Poinsettia Bowl Game which had caused the earlier date to be planned, said Robert L. Shipman, contest chairman for the San Diego Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Applicants must be between the ages of 17 and 27, married or single, and should make application with the Jaycee office, 947 Columbia, BE-4-4197. There will be an elimination contest Dec. 5 at the Chamber Auditorium where the entrants will be judged in evening gowns. Three finalists will emerge from this contest and will compete for the crown at the Poinsettia Ball to be held at the Lafayette Hotel on Dec. 8.

The Poinsettia queen will reign over Poinsettia week activities which will include the flower judging contest and various public appearances.

There are a total of ten entrants to date according to Bob Shipman, chairman.

Christmas Kettles To Be Placed By Salvation Army

The familiar tinkle of the Christmas bells throughout the holiday season, will be a reminder from the Red Shield workers and members of service clubs, who will assist in manning the kettles, that contributions will provide food, toys for children and bring holiday happiness to families and homeless people who might otherwise be deprived of many joys of the yuletide.

City Schools' Teacher Recruitment And Training Program Successful

The city schools' experimental teacher recruitment and training program has proved successful as a means of obtaining new teachers, and plans are underway to expand the program next year to include junior high school teachers.

Dr. Frank Tait, personnel director for the schools, said that 53 persons have completed the training program and 46 of these are now teaching in the city system with regular California credentials.

The program, more commonly known as the intern teacher training program, is now in its third year of operation with 35 persons in training in supervised teaching positions. The city schools and San Diego State College are joint sponsors of the project.

Applications are being accepted now from college graduates who have a bachelor's degree in any field other than education. Mrs. Dan Henry, executive secretary for the program, said that preference is given to persons under 45 years of age, who are residents of the San Diego area.

Those accepted will begin training in February by enrolling for one evening class in education at State College. They will be able to continue in their present employment or activity during this part of the training period.

Next summer the interns will attend a nine-week summer session at the college, earning nine additional credits toward a state teaching credential.

In the fall they will enter city schools' classrooms as intern teachers, with one master teacher supervising the work of every five intern teachers. They will receive three-fourths of a teacher's regular beginning salary during the fall semester, and seven-eighths during the spring session.

After completing a second session at State College, they will have qualified for regular teaching credentials and will be offered regular employment in the city schools.

Mrs. Henry reported that 29 men and 52 women are included among the 81 persons who have completed the training and are teaching in local schools or who are now in their first year of supervised teaching. Their average age is 31 years.

Deep Sea Fishing Provides Variety

Resumption of surface fishing at the Coronado Islands, disrupted by strong offshore winds and a one-day layoff in observance of Thanksgiving, and some of the best bottom fishing of the winter kept San Diego deep sea anglers busy early this week.

Sport boats returned to the Islands last weekend after five days of inactivity and reported the presence of yellows and bonito in big schools although the fish were hard to hook. Light gear paid dividends, however, and W. J. Rogers, Riverside, bagged a 25 pounder and R .E. Sanders, Lakewood, one only a few ounces smaller.

Bottom fishing continued on the excellent side this week and daily catches ranged near the full legal limit for all hands. Big red cod, cow cod and lings predominated although there also were heavy takes of groupers and sole.

Among Point Loma and Ocean Beach anglers who bagged excellent catches of big red cod and lings were Major Harry Halliday, C. W. Miner, W. E. Greer and Jack Cooper.

For the time being, Point Loma Association boats will leave for the Coronado Islands at 3 a.m. and H & M boats at 6 a.m., with both associations sending out daily bottom fishing boats at 8 a.m.

Christmas Atmosphere Pervades Ocean Beach

Ocean Beach was getting the Christmas spirit this week, with a big tree erected at the foot of Newport Ave. and plaques placed on light standards along Newport.

The beautiful 30-foot Christmas tree was expected to be lighted tonight (Thursday) for the first time, according to John Pierce, O. B. Chamber of Commerce secretary. The plaques along Newport are illuminated nightly.

Ocean Beach stores are now open daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., and will continue this schedule until Christmas.

Many merchants are planning Yuletide window displays; in fact, some already have installed special decorations and displays.

Pierce reported the Christmas tree was put up Monday night. It was placed in a special cement block, costing $340, and the tree itself, complete with 10 strings of lights and 10 strings of garlands, cost $430 installed.

Russ Wilson handled arrangements for the tree.

The plaques along Newport, with Dave Pain and Harry La Dou in charge, were installed by members of the Key Club of Point Loma High School.

Telephone Call From Back Country Sounds Alarm For O. B. Residents

By DAISY MUNCHIANDO

Over the phone my daughter Alice said in her most matter-of-fact voice, "Now mother, don't get panicky."

"Well?" I asked weakly.

"There's a forest fire up here," she continued. "Didn't you see the newspapers? The wind's blowing 50 miles per hour and a sudden change could turn it right down this canyon. Would you and Dad come and get the babies out? Mack and I will stay as long as we can."

A smoke-obscured blood red sun glared through my window and the air had that fire smell. "I'll come right away," I said.

"No, mother, you wait for Dad. If you got trapped with the car we'd be worse off."

And so I waited . . . I gave him the lowdown as we drove toward the mountains. From Poway on we could see the menacing red glare—the whole mountain ahead of us was afire!

Sporadic explosions threw debris high into the air. The heat was terrific, even from that distance. I thought of the firefighters—they must be blistered. What if it had reached the kids? It was impossible to tell from there, and I made my mind change the subject as we got hotter and hotter.

At last—the fork in the road. Ramona to the left, San Vicente to the right. We turned right and the fire was to the left and behind us.

Already we felt better as we drove the remaining three miles to McGowan's Fishing Resort sign. We turned in and saw the buildings were still there.

The family, including "Duchess," the black spaniel, came out to meet us.

They never looked so beautiful!

WASHER DEVICE SHUTS HER UP

Nagging Wife Drives Inventor to Fortune

CHICAGO— Loyal Tingley, 37 parlayed two pie tins and a couple of tin cans into an invention worth $50,000 or more.

Tingley, who lives in the little town of Vermont, Ill., became a basement inventor in self-defense. He got tired of listening to his wife's complaints about her washing.

• • •

TINGLEY'S wife, Jane a mother of two, admits she nagged her husband.

"I griped every time I had to go down to the basement to add a water conditioner during the rinse cycle," she said. The water conditioner helps rinse the detergent out of the family wash during the rinse cycle. Otherwise, you get "detergent yellow."

Tingley fashioned a gadget from the pie tins, a coffee can and a smaller tuna fish can which dispensed the water conditioner automatically, at just the proper time.

"It's a simple thing," he said. "It has no moving parts and it operates on centrifugal force."

The device perches atop the automatic washing machine's agitator. You fill it with water conditioner when you put the clothes in.

• • •

DURING the "spin cycle," centrifugal force causes the liquid in the inner chamber formed by the tuna can to spill over the outer chamber. When the agitator slows down and stops for the rinse cycle, the liquid runs out into the wash water through holes in the bottom pie tin.

Jane Tingley was so elated with the contraption that her husband decided to market it. He brought it to Chicago and showed it to Judson Sayre, president of a firm which makes automatic washing machines.

Sayre ordered his engineers to design a sleek production model of plastic, and started a million-dollar promotion.

Tingley already has a guarantee of $50,000 and additional royalties could earn him considerably more — perhaps as much as $200,000 to $250,000.

MOTHER KNOWS BEST

She worked for a child psychologist so she knew what to do when her small boy threw a temper tantrum on the floor.

She threw a glass of cold water in his face.

"And if you ever pull another such trick, I'll throw a whole bucket of water on you," said the Point Loma mother.

In due time the family had wall-to-wall carpeting installed in the house. It was luxurious.

Soon after this the boy had another tantrum. True to her word, the mother fetched a bucket of water and returned in time to see the small boy open one eye and say, "You'll ruin the carpeting."

That did it! Wham! "Right in the kisser."

NEVER TOO LATE, IS IT?

It's a little late to say "Happy Birthday" to Carolee Hahn, who was 16 on Halloween. So we'll say "Lots of happiness to you throughout the year."

But we do hope that 16th birthday party was a most memorable one—you know, the one with Bob and Karen Castle, Wayne Clark, Bill Ellis, Mary Dies, Anna Passamore, Pete Hayes, Sandra Eaves and Roger Frost.

Carolee is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Hahn, of 3793 Poe St.

TURKEY TRIPS

Mr. and Mrs. John Knauer and their small daughter, Jane, spent Thanksgiving holidays in Palm Springs.

Ray Olson's holiday "trip" was taken on the tennis court at Kona Kai Club. He's better now, suffering only a slight limp.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Smith, their daughter, Peggy, and son, Edwin, took their annual turkey trek to San Marino for a visit with friends. En route home they spent two days at Disneyland.

HEARD AND LIKED

If you keep your nose on the grindstone rough,
And holding it down long enough
In time you'll swear there's no such thing
As brooks that babble and birds that sing:
Three things will all your world compose—
Just you and the stone and your darned old nose.

When the average American motorist steps into his car, eight times out of ten it's for a trip of less than ten miles, according to the National Automobile Club

California hunters bagged 666,500 pheasants during the 1955 season, reports the National Automobile Club. That represents an increase of 18 percent over the number bagged in 1954.

For Holiday Glamour Try A Tetrazzini

An elegant buffet dish which makes excellent use of planned holiday leftovers is Turkey Tetrazzini, a lyrical combination of turkey, mushrooms and a pale cream sauce smoothed with evaporated milk and livened with sherry.

Glamorous as the famous soprano from which it takes its name, Turkey Tetrazzini teams beautifully with a tart salad, hot coffee and a pretty dessert for an easy and effective buffet. The evaporated milk adds creaminess and serves as the perfect blending ground for the delicate turkey and mushroom flavors.

TURKEY TETRAZZINI

1 can (3 or 4 ounces) mushrooms
1 cup evaporated milk
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 chicken bouillon cube
⅛ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
2 cups coarsely diced cooked turkey
1 to 2 tablespoons sherry, optional
2 cups (4 ounces) cooked macaroni or spaghetti

Drain mushrooms; reserve liquid. Add enough water to liquid to make 1 cup. Combine with evaporated milk. Melt butter in saucepan. Remove from heat and blend in flour, salt, bouillon cube and monosodium glutamate. Gradually add evaporated milk mixture and stir over low heat until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Add Tabasco, turkey, mushrooms, sherry and macaroni, and bring to serving temperature. If desired, sprinkle with chopped ripe olives.

YIELD: 4 to 6 servings.

Motor vehicle accidents in the United States during 1955 cost us an estimated four and a half billion dollars, according to the National Automobile Club.

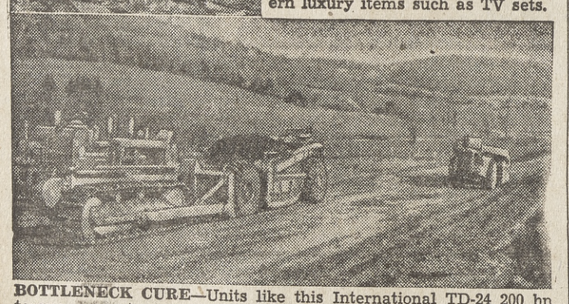
Traffic All Snarled Up!

WATER TRAFFIC—How these Venetian boatmen steer their craft without plowing into one another is a navigation miracle. This mass of gondolas and assorted vessels glide along the Grand Canal in Venice, Italy, as part of the traditional festivities marking "The Wedding of Venice With The Sea," climaxing the tourist season.

TRAFFIC BOTTLENECK—This picture presents an unusual traffic "bottleneck"—two hamsters scuffling over the same bottle of milk. When this pair of two-year-olds were abandoned by their mother, an enterprising Irvington, N. J., man came up with this ingenious idea of feeding. (U P Photos)

AIR TRAFFIC—This sight of a mass of TV antennae protruding above a ramshackle weather-beaten house in Moscow verifies Russians have TV reception problems, too. Although Muscovite factory workers seemingly earn only enough for the bare essentials of life, here's proof they enjoy modern luxury items such as TV sets.



BOTTLENECK CURE—Units like this International TD-24 200 hp torque converter crawler tractor, push-loading an International Model 55 14 cu. yd. Payscraper are helping to build roads quickly all over the country which will ease hazardous bottlenecks in auto traffic.

Wyatt Attends Credit Union League Meeting

Wil Wyatt, 4562 Niagara Ave., credit union manager at the Navy Electronics Laboratory, returned recently from a four-day meeting at San Jose of the California Credit Union League.

Wyatt has been a member of the California State Board of Directors for the League for three years and was elected to the Executive Committee at the San Jose meeting.

"California is gaining the No. 1 position in the national credit union picture," commented Wyatt. "We have nearly 1500 credit unions with about one million members enjoying the convenient, self-help thrift services unique with these do-it-yourself organizations. However, only about 2% of the total savings of all Americans are on deposit in credit unions."

Other Ocean Beach residents, Mrs. Ellen Hyde and Mrs. Nadine Houchin, members of the Laboratory credit union, also attended the general business and educational sessions.

The San Diego Chapter of the League extended a successful invitation to the convention to meet in San Diego in 1959.

A program of dancing, planned by Mary Rown, followed in the banquet room.

Although scientific exploration improves the chances of finding oil in unproved territory about three-fold, chances are still eight to one against a driller striking oil with a wildcat well, points out the National Automobile Club.

HEALTH FOR ALL

The autumn season has brought fire back into our lives after months of summer weather.

Those of us lucky enough to have open fireplaces will start a log fire on chilly evenings. Hot dogs and marshmallows never taste so good as when they're roasted out doors on a crisp November day. To some of us, the smell of burning leaves is the symbol of fall itself.

Fun? Yes—but be careful. Fire is always a hazard, and burns can be painful and dangerous. Don't start the log fire until you are sure that chimney and fireplace are in working order. "A roaring fire" sounds fine, but make sure sparks and flaming debris aren't carried up the chimney to set fire to the roof. Be sure you have a fire screen so that sparks and cinders don't fly out and start a fire on the wrong side of the hearth.

Never leave small children alone in a room with a fire. Never leave the house or go to bed without first putting out the fire.

It's just as important to be careful of an outdoor fire. It should be at a safe distance from buildings. Adequate fire extinguishers should be on hand. Check the wind direction and make sure no one gets too near. Clothing can catch on fire so easily. Be especially careful in handling charcoal fires. Many a serious burn has come from charcoal that "didn't look hot."

And as for those leaves—you are wasting a fine means of enriching your soil if you burn them. Add them to your compost pile or use them as a mulch around plants and trees. That's the safe way ,as well as the thrifty way. Burning leaves have a habit of getting out of hand and burning up more than themselves.

If you must smell burning leaves, keep your piles of leaves small and the hose handy.

Ten Pointers On Christmas Mailing Outlined By Postmaster Krenning

In anticipation of the largest holiday volume in the history of the Post Office Department, Postmaster William E. Krenning has outlined ten basic pointers for users of the mails to follow in order to assure prompt and safe delivery of their Christmas cards and gifts.

1. Address mail fully and clearly. Write legibly or print plainly. Where applicable, use zone numbers on the address and return address. Avoid using abbreviations which might confuse mail handlers.

2. Be certain that a return address is printed on the upper left hand corner of both Christmas cards and parcels. This will prevent any undelivered mail ending in a "dead letter" office.

3. Do not enclose coins or hard objects of any kind in letters, without marking the envelope for hand stamping. High speed cancelling machines cannot process such letters, often jam and damage letters.

4. Do not mail cash in any Christmas gift. For safety's sake, use Postal Money Order or checks.

5. Make sure parcels are well packed and securely wrapped in strong containers. Cushioning material, such as excelsior, shredded newspapers or tissue paper should be evenly and firmly placed on all sides of the Christmas gift. The carton should be wrapped in heavy paper and securely tied with strong twine.

6. Gifts of a delicate nature, such as glass, china or electrical appliances, radios and musical instruments, must be marked "Fragile" by the mailer. Foodstuffs should be marked "Perishable" if subject to spoilage.

7. Insure parcels. Register letters of real value. Where only proof of delivery is required for letters of no intrinsic value use Certified Mail. Use Combination Mail where a letter or message—other than a gift tag—is to be enclosed inside a Christmas package.

8. Ask at any post office for the free pamphlet, "Post Office Department Publication No. 3" which contains rates of postage and limits of size and weight for domestic mail. Another free pamphlet at post office is entitled "Packaging and Wrapping Parcels for Mailing."

9. Mail Christmas cards and parcels early to avoid the last minute rush and waiting in line at the post office. The best times to avoid crowds at stamp windows in most post offices are before 10 a.m. and between 1:30 and 3:30 p.m.

10. Every postal employee is happy to answer questions on postal rules and regulations. Anyone with problems about mailing his Christmas parcels should avail himself of the opportunity of discussing the problems with postal employees, and take advantage of their experience.

Krenning further emphasized how important it is to start planning now to shop early and mail early for Christmas.
